

Adds Zest to the Meal

"CORN TEA"

To Burn Or Not To Burn

There will be few people in Western Canada, whether farmers, business men or wage earners who will quarrel with the policy which resulted in the announcement of the Canada Grain Board's establishment of a minimum price of 87¢ cents for No. 1 Northern wheat (p.b. Fort William).

Regardless of political affiliations or economic beliefs the general public in the west greeted the announcement with approval as soon as it was made and it is to be hoped, it will be accorded general backing in the east as well.

But the extent to which this policy will ensure to the benefit of Western farmers, who are now passing through a prolonged period of drought, followed this year by a most disappointing situation as a result of wide-spread ravage of the wheat crops by rust, will depend upon the price spreads which, at the time of writing, are expected to be announced any day.

As harvesting and threshing operations progress, the amount of damage from rust is being daily revealed as a disaster of immense proportions, and while estimates of the extent of the loss sustained by farmers in Manitoba and Saskatchewan vary from day to day, it is quite apparent that the final figures will show a loss of great magnitude.

The rust which invaded large tracts of the best wheat growing areas of the west with such devastating effect, has not only reduced yields of what earlier in the season promised to be abundant crops but it has depreciated the grades to an extent comparable with the lowered yields.

At the moment there are thousands of acres of low grade wheat standing in the field awaiting the time when the grain is sufficiently dry to ensure a good burn because it does not pay to cut it.

Before taking this drastic action to destroy a lot of grain which conceivably may be of some value at a future date, farmers would be well advised to at least await the promised announcement of spread prices. It is quite possible that the spreads may be set at such figures that even the lowest grade wheat can be threshed and stored on the farm without too serious loss to the grower.

The Federal government has recognized the loss sustained by farmers through drought in the past few years as a national calamity and it is purely reasonable to suppose that the loss from rust this year will be regarded in the same category and that the grain will be given to the fact when minimum prices for the lower grades are set.

No one can gainsay the statement that the blame for damage by rust cannot be laid at the farmer's door. Rust damage is just as much a national calamity as the drought loss of recent years, and this being the case, there is every reason why the national pure strings should be loosened to relieve the predicament in which such a large number of Western farmers find themselves with winter knocking at the door.

It must be remembered that the grain about to be delivered to the flames has already cost the farmer something in outlay and labor and would cost more if it were cut, threshed and hauled to the elevator.

Unfortunately the present market price is too low to cover all these costs, without taking into consideration any margin of profit for the farmer who raised the grain.

If the crop is destroyed by fire not only does the grower lose what he has already put into it in cash and labor, but it represents a loss to the country at large. It might be well worth the country's while to advance the farmer at least sufficient money to save the grain by way of a fixed minimum price, thus safeguarding what has already been spent on it, and perhaps saving what might otherwise have to be expended later in the form of relief.

Such a measure might well be regarded in the light of a partnership between the individual and the nation for the mutual benefit of both.

There is also the question of the effect on the morale of the unfortunate grower. After losing a series of crops from drought the economic necessity of burning a crop which was very long ago so promising must have a disheartening effect on the distressed heart. If this effect can be averted without serious financial loss to the country, it may be well worth the expenditure.

Fies Prefer Orange Color

Would Increase Efficiency

Primrose Yellow Is Second Choice

And Carmine Third

It's this way with flies, they rather eat an orange than a cucumber, if the choice depends on color. Such was the deduction announced at the annual meeting of the Entomological Society of Canada recently as a result of scientific observation of color preferences of multitudes of flies. A huge checker-board with eleven-inch squares in various colors was hung up in a dairy barn of the university's college of agriculture. The flies were invited to come and make themselves at home. For three months this went on while Lester J. Berry, graduate student in charge of the experiment, and his aides kept watch. The tabulated results announced by Berry follow: Not less than 10,572 flies parked on the orange square; while only 2,067 sought out the green. Primrose yellow drew 6,541; carmine, 4,415; light blue, 3,486; and white, 2,360. More esthetic flies went after coral red and pink.

Scientific Investigators Recommend

Five Light Meals A Day

When you eat a meal, what is the effect on your work? Scientific investigators have repeatedly investigated, and repeatedly answered that the effect is bad. But their studies have generally been based on the assumption that the meal is about one-third of your daily diet, since you eat three meals a day. Now Howard W. Haggard and Leon A. Greenberg, in a book, "Diet and Efficiency," report that the best schedule is five a day, all comparatively light, and that after a light meal in mid-morning or mid-afternoon the efficiency is increased 10 per cent.

This conclusion refutes the older American tradition, which had its basis in farm life. But it is in accord with the habit of many office-workers, and it corroborates the advertising claims of several candies and soft drinks.—Business Week.

Safety Campaign

Automobile Fatalities On Roads In British Isles

Bad as the slaughter on the roads continues to be, we do not think there is any ground for the gloomy view that the safety campaign is more or less played out. It takes a long time to build up the habit of self-protection amid the dangers of the road, says the London Daily Herald.

The fact that fatalities and injuries are below those of last year is pretty convincing proof that safety habits are gaining ground, and there is no good reason whatever for believing the improvement has ceased. Indeed, the ministry of transport's analysis of accidents by age-groups indicates once again where education and propaganda should be directed with special energy. Only one-ninth of the killed were 15 to 24. One-third were over 55.

One half—a tragic figure—were under 15. It is clearly the young and the old who are in the greatest danger, and upon them should be concentrated the warnings and instructions of the campaign.

Bomb Shelter De Luxe

City Of Paris Making Provision For Air Raids

Thirty feet under the ground in the Avenue Poche, one of the most fashionable residential streets in Paris, a model concrete shelter has been constructed for use in the event of air raids. The shelter consists of several rooms equipped with all conveniences, including apparatus for detecting the presence of poison gas. It will serve as the model for many more which are to be built by the city of Paris. It is built under a mansion. Its roof is a block of concrete six feet thick. Above this is 10 feet of earth then a one-foot thick block of concrete, and finally another layer of earth. Two stairways lead to the shelter, and at the foot of each is a steel and concrete door weighing a ton. There are special rooms for giving first aid to injured persons, machine rooms for light and ventilation purposes and storerooms. Although it is connected with the city's main light supply, the shelter is equipped with generators and batteries for providing its own light if necessary.

China has announced that after May 1, 1936, anyone in Nanking between the ages of six and fifty who cannot read will be fined. Appalling to the ignorance of the people of the capital, the Chinese authorities have issued a primer of 1000 characters ordered students to learn the ignorant from it or give up hope of graduation. As half the population of the city cannot read, the students will be kept busy until the new law goes into effect. The police will be the official examiners, and will stop anyone they wish who if he fails to read the primer, will have to pay the equivalent of half a cent on the spot. The penalty is called the Ignorant People's Tax.

Sting Of Giant Type Proved Fatal To Italian

A sting by a giant jelly-fish has resulted in the death of Salvatore Carrella, an Italian cane farmer near Brisbane. He was bathing at Coogarra Beach when he suddenly cried out loudly for help. His companions rushed out and pulled him ashore. He was given artificial respiration and restorative but in vain, and he died on his way to the hospital. Tentacle marks were found on his body and it was at first thought that he had been attacked by an octopus. Later, however, it was found that he had been paralysed by a giant "Portuguese Man of War," a type of jelly-fish that is found along the Queensland coast. These jelly-fish often have tentacles up to 12 feet long, and their sting is capable of causing temporary paralysis.

On opening the parcel he discovered his two volumes of Stanley's "In Darkest Africa," which he had read during the long Arctic night while the polar party waited to begin the futile dash to the North Pole. They had been discovered among Parry's effects and forwarded by the admiral's daughter, Mrs. Edwin Stafford, of Washington, D.C.

It was produced and identified as the one by which Canute conveyed the manor of Pusey (Berksire) 700 years before. The horn was the alarm to be given on the arrival of the King's enemies. After Ten Years' Research Scientists Have Evolved Rust Resistant Wheat

After a decade of intensive and laborious research in laboratories and on experimental farms, wheat scientists have now evolved a wheat that will resist the attack of rust and that will mill and bake as well as Marquis and Reward varieties is nearing the stage when it will be available for distribution to the farmers of western Canada in 1937.

In fact, on Dominion experimental farms in different districts in the west small plots of this wheat, which is as yet only identified by a number, could be seen this summer standing straight and tall with well-filled heads. Beside them in striking contrast were patches of ordinary rust-susceptible varieties that withered by the vicious parasite that robbed western Canadian agriculture of millions of bushels of wheat, and consequently millions of dollars, during the present crop year.

The development of this wheat, which will mean that in comparatively short time farmers will not have to worry about warm and moist July days, is not something that happened overnight. It is the outcome of the combined efforts of planters, pathologists, plant breeders, milling and baking chemists who set to work in 1925 to find a strain of wheat that would succumb to rust and would possess milling and baking qualities as high as Marquis and Reward.

Wheat that was rust-resistant was developed early in the campaign to eliminate one of the greatest hazards of farming, and then came the work of producing a strain that would measure up to the standards demanded by millers and bakers, for without them rust-resistant wheat would be worthless.

In 1933, after exacting tests of 33 rust-resistant types that had been evolved in the laboratories, six were regarded as suitable. Further tests reduced this number to two, and these efforts were concentrated on increasing the seed of these varieties so there would be sufficient for distribution to farmers.

Today one of these new wheats, unaffected by even the severe rust invasion of the present year and equal to Marquis and Reward in milling and baking, is almost ready for distribution to registered farmers. The first step in increasing the seed of the variety was carried out in the crop year of 1934. During the present year there were plots of it grown on Dominion government experimental farms and stations, weathering the rust, ripening early and yielding well.

One plot on the experimental farm at Morden, where moisture was rather scarce during the summer, returned 28 bushels to the acre. Next summer greater quantities will be grown for seed purposes on the experimental farms, and for 1937 it is expected that there will be sufficient to supply registered farmers in large quantities. Then it will rapidly become available for general distribution.

This type has been developed by crossing Reward, which is world famous for its high milling and baking qualities, with a derivative from a Marquis-Banner cross.

So far no official announcement of this rust-resistant wheat has come from the scientists in Dominion rust research laboratories in Winnipeg, or other branches of the Dominion department of agriculture, the experimental farms and the universities of the western provinces who have all co-operated in its development.

Its rust-resistant and milling and baking qualities have been well proven by exhaustive testing, but naturally they have guarded against a premature announcement, not wanting to raise false hopes in the minds of an agricultural population that has waited so anxiously for a wheat that would not fade and wither under a rust attack. However, all the men who have participated in the developing and testing of this strain will meet in Winnipeg shortly for arrangements for the distribution of this wheat are already under way—then field tests and checks on the quality will be compared and the announcement can be expected.

Also, farmers can expect from this meeting information on the distribution of the available seed.

While this unnamed wheat might be thought to be the end of patient, unceasing search for a perfect wheat, it is not regarded as such by the scientists who have produced it. Research with scores of other varieties of rust-resistant wheat is still in progress, despite the concentration recently toward producing seed supplies of the varieties that have so far proved that the dread disease of the prairie wheat belt can be mastered. Even though these types show good yielding ability, ripen early and much milling and baking requirements, rust research will go on. The scientists' attack on other field crop diseases—root rot, ergot and loose and covered smuts—will continue.

Their efforts recently have also included more and more work on the rust. One variety, known as Anthony oats, has been already produced, and it is highly resistant to stem rust. However, this variety is not capable of fighting off crown rust (orange rust), which attacks the leaves of the oat plant, thriving on the food of the associated fungus, the development of the kernels.

J. N. Walsh, of the Dominion rust research laboratory, is one of the scientists who have devoted their energy to finding a strain of rust-resistant oats. In April, he announced Winnipeg before the meeting of the associated committee, that field crop diseases, the synthetic production of one or two promising new varieties which has been developed in the laboratory and was to be increased for distribution of the seed to farmers.

Memorial For Livingstone

Scots In South Africa Honor Their Fellow Countryman

It is pleasing to note that South African Scots have erected a memorial to David Livingstone, their fellow countryman. He was born in Blantyre, Lanarkshire, and became the greatest missionary and explorer Scotland ever produced.

Scots in the Union of South Africa and Rhodesia combined to subscribe for the statue, which was sculptured in Scotland and shipped free of cost by the Union Castle Line, the founder of which, about 35 years ago, Sir Donald Currie, also a Scot. The statue was unveiled at the Victoria Falls, which Livingstone was the first white man to see, and which was 347 feet high, or 185 feet higher than Niagara.

The statue was unveiled by the Hon. Hugh U. Moffat, an ex-premier of Rhodesia, who is a nephew of Livingstone. This was a great gathering of Scots in this remote area, and a way of contrast to the Highland dress there were Capuchin friars in white attire. There was, of course, a pipe band from Bulawayo.

The service was afterwards held at the grave where Livingstone was first interred in Johannesburg, before his body was removed to the national cemetery in Westminster Abbey, St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Use For Polar Winds

Scientists Believe They Are Potential Source Of Power

The screeching winds of icy air which sweep over the barren polar regions will be harnessed by future generations and used for power when coal is scarce and oil is exhausted, Professor P. Debenham, in his presidential address before the geography section of the British association for the Advancement of Science.

Prof. Debenham, in a paper on "Some Aspects of the Polar Regions," invoked his listeners to compare the well-known power of Niagara Falls, about 6,000 tons of water falling each second, with the power in the little known Adèle land, "where an air river of at least 50 miles in width and probably some hundreds of feet in depth is moving outward from the plateau at an average velocity of 50 miles per hour, or about 70 feet per second, most of the year."

Prof. Debenham said he did not wish to further anticipate some H. O. Wells of the future who will "ring the Antarctic with windmills producing power to be sent by wireless to the southern hemisphere, but the winds of the Antarctic have to be felt to be believed, and nothing is quite impossible to physicists and engineers."

THE BLACK-SKINNED PEOPLE

Joe Louis made mincemeat of Max Baer in a few rounds of fierce fighting and a negro, albeit more brown than black, is on his way to be champion of the heavyweight fighters of the world.

Negro champions have never been popular in the United States. The jubilation of the black-skinned folks over the dominance of one of their own is never taken with good grace by the whites.

The fact that all people are sons and daughters of Adam and Eve does not appeal to the palefaces who think the Nordic type is the ablest of all people and the elect of God.

Too many think that black people are hereditary slaves. It's hard to live that down. The subjoined lines of a talented if strangely sad negro poetess describes so well the characteristic feeling towards her people in referring to a haughty matron:

"She seems to think that up in heaven
Her class lies late and snores,
While we black cherubs rise at seven
To do celestial chores."

THE FAMILY COW

I sing about the family cow, with antlers on her brow, a tassel on her tail,
No other animal can put, so well and skillfully, her head inside a 6-quart pail.

My old cow prods me with her horns and puts her tribbles on my corns and fills my soul with grief.

But she consoles me with some milk that's smooth and white and fine as silk and rich beyond belief.

The city-dwelling modern man goes to the grocer for a can of milk made by a trust,

Or from the factory he gets a quart of something cold and wet in which to soak his crust.

And all the people of that ilk who live on canned or doctored milk are gaunt and sad of face.

While I, who keep a large red cow, could polish off Joe Louis now and vindicate the race.

For you, O Cow, my harp I swat. You have your faults as who has not, you trample on my toes.

And when I come with shining pail you slug me with your matted tail and nearly break my nose.

And often when I'm in your stall, you jam me up against the wall and break three ribs or four.

And when my bucket's nearly full of milk as white as carded wool you kick it through the door.

But then that milk is just a dream when it comes to sure-thing cream, a man must have a cow.

And so I'll gladly overlook the passing kick, the playful hook from those spikes on your brow.

THE PASSING OF DON BARK

Don H. Bark was born at Hinckley, Illinois, 54 years ago. He had an extensive career in scientific agriculture in the western United States, specializing in irrigation work. In 1916 the Canadian Pacific Railway secured his services for the development of agriculture on their irrigation project. He came to Alberta from Boise, Idaho, and first located at Strathmore, but subsequently came to Brooks where he has lived for some eighteen years. His position at Brooks was superintendent of irrigation development. Recently, when the project here was turned over to the settlers, Mr. Bark was transferred to Lethbridge, but was enjoying a holiday prior to taking up his new duties.

Mr. Bark was instrumental in forming the Grimm Alfalfa Seed Growers Association, one of the most thriving local industries. He had developed seed pea growing as a major effort of this enterprise and, as aforementioned, it was on behalf of this work that he had taken the fatal trip.

In many other fields of agriculture, the late Mr. Bark had given unstintingly of his energy and ability. He made alfalfa growing an important branch of agriculture in many parts of this province. He developed the extensive lamb feeding business of this

"Mr. Bark was recognized as one of the foremost men engaged in agricultural promotion work in western Canada," S. G. Porter, manager of the C.P.R. department of natural resources, said. "He was a man

Chatter Column

We are indebted to the scissors of the editor of the Peace River Record for the following. Says he dug it up in the Wall Street Journal. "We don't know either what he would be doing with a paper like that, but he did not the following letter, claimed to have been received by the Internal Revenue Department: "Gents—The enclosed form, on which I am asked to make a record of my income for the last fiscal year, is returned to you with my respects and my deepest appreciation of this subtle form of flattery. I am particularly impressed by its resurrection of old forms and figures of speech, such as 'compensation from rents,' 'interest on bank deposits,' etc."

"The question I got a great laugh out of was 'Were you during the taxable year supporting in your household one or more persons related to you?' Boy, that's a hoot! There are so many persons closely related to me staying at my house that I am what you would call surrounded. Only the other day three more distant cousins of my wife blew in, making a new high for the movement. And one of them brought a friend."

"For the past four years my house has been full of strangers, all claiming to be my cousins or aunts or something. I can't identify half of them, and what burned me up was when my wife's Uncle Jerry, who has been living with us for a year, slapped me on the back the other day and asked, 'Haven't I seen you somewhere before?'"

"The black sash it will allow me $400 for each dependent relative, and I would say the government is overpricing them, as I would trade the entire lot for $11 and throw in a pair of bicycle pants and a magli-lantern. (Two of my wife's aunts you can have for the asking.)

"Heigho! and hehah! The black also asks me to 'describe my business as provided in Item 2,' and I am glad to answer, 'Lousy, Mr. Secretary, lousy.' And it asks me to enter on line 1 of Schedule A my total income. I wish you would stop joking, Mr. Secretary. Fin is fun, and you can carry anything too far."

"Then you say something about allowance for subsistence, deprivation and depletion. That's where I come in. As a Canadian business man I am a star in obsolescence. I am depleted, deflated, depressed, denatured, denuded, denigrated and dejected. And so is your old man. Yours is a barrel."

We wouldn't know why, but that reminds us of a story we read the other day and so we pass it on to you. Johnny you know how your Johnny is, tore his pants and had to go home for repairs. That seemed to be alright, but he was home only an hour or so when he was forced to report that a similar accident had occurred. Mother, in this time, was so day and ordered him to his room with the injunction to mend it himself as an object lesson. Of course she didn't deem it necessary to warn him that he couldn't "budge one step" until he did. Even Johnny would hesitate to face the open sash pants. And so after some time had elapsed and still no Johnny appeared, she went to his room to investigate and found him gone—with his torn pants on his back. Scouting around the house, she noticed the cellar door was open, which was unusual. So she shouted sternly: "Are you running around with your pants off down there?"

"No, madam, I am not, and a cow replied: "No, madam, I am not, I am running the meter."

We can sympathize with the lady in her embarrassment, but just think what Hitler thought when he had his fortune told some months ago. Of course we can't vouch for the truth of the story, but it is alright as it stands.

The German leader must have had tea at one of those places where, if you unlucky, you get tea and willy nilly your fortune told. Anyway, she had news for him. She told him that he would die on a Jewish holiday. Being a good Aryan, he didn't know any Jewish holidays and asked for a more explicit date. He got it. "Any day you die," she said, "will be a Jewish holiday."

Or you can make it an Ethiopian holiday if you like.

Ten Minutes with the Scotch Philosopher

Once again the threatening onset has come and gone, leaving our financial situation somewhat more precarious. After paying Tom, Dick and Mary for various services rendered during the season, we were left with the proverbial thirty cents. That evening, "Burr," a foy elevator boy, inveigled us into a game of rap rummy and in one fell swoop cleaned us up. Men, it's dreadful to be Scotch and efforts broke too. All of which makes us ask this question: When there is "nothing" left in the deal, why does the farmer always get it for his share?

The mobbing of men, ships and guns now proceeding apace in Europe must remind many people of the futility of resorting to war under modern conditions of warfare. The great battle of Jutland, wherein 5000 men and many costly ships went to the bottom of the North Sea is a striking example thereof.

Claimed by both British and German as an overwhelming victory, it was, without doubt, the most indecisive encounter recorded in naval history, and had no bearing whatever on the final outcome. From a very beginning of the great war, the operations of all the high commands were characterized by fearful errors which caused countless millions to sweep the many occasions these men, self-buffed as gazelles by some people, forgot the simple strategies of Alexander and Napoleon to satisfy their personal vanities, indulged in orgies of bloodshed, without hope of success.

Since the hour has come for the many people of the earth to deliberate in the most vehement manner that war and all its horrors must end.

During a little lull the other night, we decided to rest in bed the following day, and this is about what happened.

At the usual hour of rising our good lady thoughtfully brought us a basin of coffee. This we lapped up in great enjoyment but we were reaching out for the makings when a neighbor came along. He had broken the record of his season and could go no farther. Old Jim is such a fine old boy that we just couldn't deny him, so, picking up a brace and bit, some bolts and a piece of hardware, we went along and helped to fix up. On the way back we saw on the far side of the field a stray animal making gay with its green feet.

This proved to be a breechly bull and after much running and cussing we got him started for home. Of course, he tore down about four rods of the fence and after we had fixed it required it seemed quite natural that we should go digging moribund.

That evening, as we at our modest supper, my missus exclaimed: "Life on the farm is sure grand; a fellow can take a rest whenever he feels like it."

And what did we say, now? Nothing! Long ago we learned that there is neither glory nor profit to be gained in an argument with a lady.

City dogs are like the townspeople themselves—a little bit queer. A couple of nights ago Mittie started dragging the rug she had for a bed over the floor.

For an hour or so she scratched and fussed around until she and the rug were cast out into the darkness of the night. The missus said that Mittie was only having a little fun, but we insisted that a flea had found its way into the danged thing. At daylight the Pom could be seen running up and down, pulling the rug in the door and the rug must have been jake for she's been alright since.

Now, before we hit the hay we'll tell you of a great adventure Mittie had this morning.

Contrary to her usual custom, she decided to accompany us to work, but half way over the road she changed her mind when a big jack rabbit popped up out of the ditch bank.

For a brief moment dog and jack faced each other, then fled like the dickens in opposite directions, both thoroughly convinced that Old Nick was right behind.

Maybe Max Baer could tell just how they felt.

So long, mead!

CHANCELLOR, Sept. 29.—By the end of the coming week, the weather being favorable, most of the threatening should be completed in the district, that is, with the exception of some places up north in the hills where harvest was delayed.

Friends of the Family

Look at the packages on your pantry and bathroom shelves, and see what a multitude of brand names you recognize. Some of them have been familiar for years. You may have made the acquaintance of others only a few weeks ago. But even these are not suspected strangers. You have bought them confidently because they were advertised. And it is the same with your sheets and towels, your shoes and clothes, your electric appliances, the car in your garage—nearly everything you use.

Advertised products have a standing that commands respect. They are not nameless, but are vouched for by responsible firms. The fact that they are advertised is in itself an indication that their standards of quality are strictly maintained, that they represent honest value.

As science and discovery go on, newly developed products are constantly being advertised—ready to help you save money and improve your standard of living. Every advertisement of such a product you read in your newspaper is a letter of introduction to a new and possibly useful friend.

It will pay you to read the advertisements in this paper. By doing so you will meet many choice products—worthy to become friends of the family.

Waiting for the King

Canadian undergraduates who go to the Old Country in their summer vacations enjoy many unusual sights and meetings but the group shown above, encountered its biggest thrill when the royal automobile was stopped and the King and Queen chatted with them about Canada.

This party is one of many from Canadian universities that visited Great Britain this year under the auspices of the Overseas Education League by the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain.

They visited England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales and saw many famous schools and colleges in the British Isles. In addition to the sight-seeing features that are a part of every Old Country tour. The group was viewing Buckingham Palace from the Mall when Their Majesties set out for a drive. They stopped the car and chatted with the Canadian students for 10 or 15 minutes.

Do You Know?

In our files we have many pictures of old-timers but we don't know who they are. So, every week we shall pick one at random. Here's the first. Do you know whom it represents? We don't. So if you do, phone and let us know.

A Laugh at Hitler

One day last July there was a nasty little riot aboard the German liner Bremen in New York harbor. The riot occurred when the New Yorkers objected to the unfurling of a swastika flag, and the cops had to be called to restore order.

By way of showing its appreciation for the officers' services, the North German Lloyd Steamship Line has made them gifts of money.

The officers had to get permission from their superiors to accept the gifts, and so, the other day, it came out that one of the men thus rewarded was Detective Matthew Solomon, who is a Jew and the ancient king. And in this dry humorous little story there is all the commentary needed on the essential brainlessness of Nazi anti-Semitism.

Here we have a Jewish policeman being rewarded for protecting the Nazi flag from attack by Jews.

The joke would seem to be on Herr Hitler.

News Note: There will be a federal election on October 14.

Il Duce's War Preparations Cost Italy Tremendous Sum Monthly

ROME - Premier Benito Mussolini has revealed the cost up till now of his East African war preparations as 2,000,000,000 lire or $164,000,000.

Only has more than 1,200,000 men under arms. Her fleet and air force are partially mobilized. War factories are working at high pressure for the state. The government is incurring no less than 1,000,000,000 lire per month on war preparations, both in East Africa and in Italy itself.

This figure is, of course, grossly exaggerated. But the interesting thing about Italy's war preparation expenditure, whatever it may be, is that the Italian people do not seem concerned at the heavy financial sacrifices which are being imposed upon them for the African campaign.

They have been, repeatedly, told that war in East Africa is an absolute necessity. There is no evidence of a murmur at the new burden of increased living costs and higher taxation. Possibly this is because they are being assured that good returns will accrue for the money now being spent in Africa.

Lavish expenditure in one direction is partially offset by economies in others. Imports of superfluous luxuries have been curtailed to the utmost limit. A drive to buy Italian-made in preference to foreign goods has been started and is being pushed with great vigor.

Italians are being instructed to regard as superfluous—at least for the time being—all articles of consumption not strictly necessary to simple life and to a nation at war. In particular, Italian ladies are being urged to do away with those luxuries, such as furs, perfumes, etc., which had hitherto been imported from abroad.

At the same time an effort is being made to develop domestic supplies to replace previously indispensable foreign imports.

Ethiopia Spurs Mobilization As Season of Rains Nears Its End

By R. H. MARKHAM

In the Christian Science Monitor

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 28. — Three days of brilliant sunlight have succeeded torrential rains that fell twice daily for three months. The rainy season is at an end.

This is considered as a signal that the time for long-awaited mobilization is at hand. As a precaution against any emergency, early general mobilization has been decided upon.

The head of the Ethiopian church visited the palace and gave his consent, which is a very important in view of the enormous influence of the clergy.

For months the Ethiopian general staff and government, convinced that concessions satisfactory to Premier Benito Mussolini are impossible, have been firmly expected war. But the emperor has restrained the army and nation from every provocation, meanwhile not ceasing to make intensive defensive preparations. The troops, however, have been withdrawn 25 kilometers behind the frontiers.

The call of general mobilization will not be issued until after the great military celebrations tomorrow when tens of thousands of tribesmen will gather here. But already persons eligible for military service in the north and south provinces are moving toward the frontier.

A Swiss captain, heading a thousand men, has been sent to guard the railroad. He will be joined to-morrow by a Belgian officer with a similar force.

Munitions are daily being sent across the Blue Nile by suspended cable. A Red Cross mission composed of American volunteers is asked to leave for the front tomorrow.

The main Ethiopian defenses are 40 miles behind the northern border, where gigantic mountains and profound gorges make the use of modern heavy weapons difficult.

Jim London, while avowing long defiance has little time to spare in the five years he held it.

Infantile Paralysis

Note: Anterior Poliomyelitis

From the Monthly Bulletin, Department of Public Health

At the season of the year both parents and physicians should maintain a vigilant attitude toward the onset of any illness that may suggest Infantile Paralysis.

The early symptoms of this disease are confusing, resembling summer diarrhoea and influenza, but it is possible to discern it.

Two illnesses where fever, nausea, vomiting, diarrhoea and headache are present or where "colic" in the child, indicated by sneezing, coughing, sore throat and fever are absent, in someone old or young, should be regarded with suspicion and be reported promptly to your doctor. Early symptoms are: diarrhoea, sickness, pains in the muscles and "frog neck".

Many cases of Infantile Paralysis escape recognition and yet be infectious to others, because they are so mild that there is no evidence of paralysis. For this reason it is suggested that all cases, bearing even slight symptoms such as noted above, should be carefully watched, particularly if associated with fever. Your doctor knows the method of treatment.

Cream Deliveries

Some increase in deliveries of cream in connection of the practice was shown in the August figures as compared with those of August last year, the total for the five weeks in August of this year was 2,254,474 lbs. of butter-fat, an increase of 302,453 lbs. for the same period of 1934. The total deliveries for the 35 weeks ending August 31 of this year were 14,564,131 lbs., compared with 15,912,644 lbs. for the similar period of 1934.

The Automobile World

Over Thirty-five Million Cars Are In Use

The motorist who brags of 100,000 miles has still some distance to go to cover the world's highways. In a little booklet issued by the Automobile Manufacturers' association, packed with unusual and interesting information, it is stated that there are 9,231,000 miles of highway in the world.

The United States has 3,065,254, one-third of the total. Soviet Russia is second with 1,082,100, and Japan, rarely surprising in view of its small area, is third, with 594,626. Australia takes fourth place, with 466,251, and Canada is fifth with 348,124. At the other end of the scale is Gibraltar, with 15 miles of road, and French Somaliland with 25. British Columbia has 66 cars to each mile of road, while the United States has only 8.1 per mile, and Canada 2.7.

According to the book, the average life of cars is 84 years. It is said also that 95 per cent of all cars sell for less than $750 wholesale; that farmers use 20 per cent of all trucks; that there are 35,087,000 motor vehicles in the world, of which 71 per cent are in the United States; that motorists pay six times the tax they paid 15 years ago; that in automobile deaths per 10,000 motor vehicles, Canada has the second lowest standing in the world, with 9.1—second to New Zealand's 6.6—and Italy the highest at 54.5—Edmonton Journal.

Fruit Imported By Canada

Canada, the United Kingdom, France, Germany and Austria are leading world importers of fruit. Canada does not require to import apples, but the average annual import of other fruits into Canada from 1928-32 included 74,000 tons of bananas, 73,000 tons of oranges, 20,000 tons of dried grapes, 12,000 tons of lemons, 11,000 tons of grapes, and 8,000 tons of pears.

Prefers Cigarette To Pipe

France's pipe, long the favorite for things Germanic, is finally surrendering to the more modern cigarette and cigar. In 1934-35 cigarette consumption in the Reich was $2,075 million, or an increase of seven per cent over the former 12-month period. Smoking tobacco consumption declined three per cent over the same period. Cigar consumption increased 20 per cent.

HONOR PIONEERS

Pictures Without Camera

First Motion Picture of This Kind Made in London

The first motion picture film ever to be made without a camera was shown to the public in London, Eng., under the auspices of the post office. It consisted of colored patterns which moved in tempo with a rumal played on the sound track of the film. The patterns were applied directly to the film by hand.

The invention was made by an Australian artist, Len Lye, who sought by use of a film to avoid the mechanical difficulties encountered in providing a color accompaniment to music by means of electric lights.

The post office has ordered other films of the same nature, which will be used to advertise its services.

Tourist Attractions

What Is Worth Most To Canada, Live Or Dead Attractions?

(By Jack Miner)

What is worth most to the people of Canada, live or dead attractions? The first to be considered is what is the best for the most people. Figures show that in North America, less than ten per cent of the population use a gun while the other 90 per cent want to see birds and animals alive and only shoot with a rifle. The numbers take up the 90 per cent, while the 90 per cent take nothing from the shooters, but are constantly building up their sport.

While I am not talking politics, yet Canada has wisely used the unemployed to build good roads through our north country or vast natural parks and I say without hesitation that one family of our white tailed deer bounding across the highway and possibly stepping into the range of the tourist's kodak and movie cameras is worth more to more people of Canada than 25 deer hanging back in the woods or even hanging dead on the sides of our tourists and remember, the white tailed deer are no comparison to our lovely moose which the majority of hunters would shoot first. Those living sights and pictures are as good as golden wheat fields dollars and cents among our rocky picturesque country. Yet I say $100,000 brought into Canada by tourists is just as good as $100,000 worth of wheat going out of Canada. Moreover it is best to be distributed among people who do not own land to grow wheat. A spl of all live attractions are self-destructors. For illustration, take the thousands of people who go to Yellowstone Park every year and see the geysers and the hot springs and they spend tens of thousands of dollars, and all they get out of it is the knowledge that the geysers and the hot springs are there. Yet these photos and movies of the cities at what cost of money and spend their money; but our innocent back deer of Canada are not nearly ever shot and no consideration, yet he is one of the most beautiful animals in Canada. He is a chevron, but no comparison to a chevron of a dog. Why? Because the garbage from the hotels in a small city or town in the North, or even in the city of Vancouver, is taken to the hills where the public can see the garbage. Why? Because the garbage from the hotels in a small city or town in the North, or even in the city of Vancouver, is taken to the hills where the public can see the garbage.

These common back deer in Ontario are practically harmless as deer and moose. As proof of this moose were roving in Ontario, that the government did not allow an open season on moose in Ontario, and that in 1900, as proof of the scarcity of moose, with no open season in Ontario, the Ontario hunters like myself went to Quebec to hunt them. That was the fact. In 1900, the bear has always been here and the moose came in and have multiplied. The moose are so numerous that the bear by hundreds of thousands. The moose are so numerous that the bear by hundreds of thousands. The moose are so numerous that the bear by hundreds of thousands.

Stronger In Frozen State

Zero Temperatures Do Not Weaken

Because trees are often heard to crack or pop in below zero temperatures and limbs seem to break off more often in winter than in summer, many people believe that intense cold definitely weakens wooden members, and that ordinarily safe mow or bridge supports might approach the danger point in below zero temperatures. Tests at Syracuse University show that there is no basis for such belief, but that on the contrary both green and kiln dried wood are stronger in a frozen state than at ordinary temperatures. The green wood shows the greatest increase in strength, doubtless because of its greater moisture content.

Most Successful Held Since The Peak Year Of 1928

Directors of the Canadian National exhibition reviewed the most successful exhibition from a business standpoint since the peak year of 1928. The big fair closed with 153,000 persons attending the impressive closing ceremonies. Total attendance for the two weeks of the exhibition was 1,551,000, an increase of 148,000 over the year before.

A Waste Of Money

Speeding Uses Up Much More Gasoline And Oil

The toll of human life taken by reckless driving on our highways, the injuries and inconveniences due to unnecessary speed, are forceful enough arguments in themselves to urge caution on motorists. And the United States Bureau of Standards has compiled significant data to show that speeding is also a waste of money. In that the faster an automobile is driven the more gasoline it consumes.

A car capable of getting 18 miles out of a gallon of gasoline, when driven 30 miles an hour, for example, will get only 14.4 miles to the gallon, according to the bureau figures, when pushed up to 40 miles an hour.

At 50 miles an hour the same car will get 14.6 miles to the gallon, at 60 miles an hour it will get 12.6 miles, and at 80 miles an hour it will get 8.8 miles per gallon.

In a study of this, nearly seven times much oil is used at 55 miles per hour as at 30 miles an hour. These are facts well deserving of publicity.—Hamilton Spectator.

The Manx Language

Only One That Does Not Contain Swear Words

Interest in the Manx language, which has been on the verge of extinction, is being revived by the Manx Society, composed of ardent nationalists of the Isle of Man. When the last Manx census was taken, four years ago, 329 persons could speak Manx, but 60 per cent of them were then over 65 years of age. A peculiarity of the Manx language is that it contains no swear words. How Manx gofers were able to relieve their feelings a few years ago, when the language was generally used on the island, is being asked by those against the new movement who contend that perhaps that may be why Manx has gone out of use.

Durum Wheat

Will Be Marketed And Dealt With By The Canadian Wheat Board

All durum wheat grown in western Canada this year will be marketed and dealt with by the Canadian wheat board in the same way as ordinary wheat. Prime Minister Bennett stated in answer to queries that the board had come to him from many quarters.

Durum wheat is used mainly for macaroni-making and other processing rather than for milling purposes.

Montreal Banker

Sir Gerald Aylmer Succeeds To Baronetcy

To the list of Canadian baronets was added recently the name of Sir Gerald E. F. Aylmer, retired branch manager for the Bank of Montreal. He resides in suburban Westmount.

Sir Gerald succeeds in the baronetcy his cousin, Sir Philip Aylmer, V.C. of London, who died without issue. The baronetcy was created in 1621 and Sir Gerald is the 14th baronet.

Success Through Failure

It is a mistake to suppose that success, through success, has been achieved through failure. By far the best experience of men is made up of their remembered failures in dealing with others in the affairs of life. Such failures in sensible men incite to better self-management, and greater self-control, as a means of avoiding them in the future.

Measuring Space

Astronomers can measure accurately distances up to 300 trillion miles, states Dr. F. C. Johnson, Pittsburgh, lecturer of the American Astronomical Society in convention at Toronto. With a fair degree of accuracy, distances up to 400 trillion miles can be measured, he added.

Sunlight Is Trapped

Ingenious Device Ensures Full Benefit Of Sun's Rays In The Home

A block of flats now being built in London, sunlight is being "laid on."

Not just sun-ray lamps or artificial spray apparatus, but real sunshine, so harnessed that it switches itself on as soon as the sun appears, and switches on the electric light as the sun disappears.

This is the first installation in England of an ingenious device invented by a French engineer, Jacques Arthurs, which puts sunlight "on tap" for domestic lighting.

The device enables every room in a house, including the darkest cellar, to be efficiently lit by the rays of the sun, even with blinds drawn across the windows, or even if there are no windows at all.

This is achieved by an arrangement of mirrors and lenses. Up on the roof there is a big mirror mounted on a slowly rotating axis, operated by a tiny 1-4th horse-power motor.

A mercury thermostatic device, worked by the heat of the sun, controls the motor and thus keeps the mirror moving just enough to make it follow the sun across the sky—so that the rays, reflecting the rays over the entire surface of 40 square feet.

These rays are reflected by another mirror fixed at an angle that will deflect them down a vertical shaft to the basement. At the height of the ceiling in each room are mirrors, so that the sunbeams and thus keep the mirror moving just enough to make it follow the sun across the sky—so that the rays, reflecting the rays over the entire surface of 40 square feet.

The rays are then finally deflected from room to room through small apertures in which mirrors are set. Should the sun go behind a cloud the mercury in the thermostat begins to tick. That action is sufficient to switch on the electric light.

To make the efficiency of this apparatus complete all the mirrors are polished automatically by an arm which scrapes from the mirror. This wipes each mirror over after one complete rotation of the central mirror on the roof.

To Banish Horses

Busay London Thoroughfares To Be Closed To Horse-Drawn Traffic

Soon London, England, is to be conspicuous five years hence because of the absence of horses from the streets, according to present plans of the ministry of transport. It is intended to inaugurate a completely mechanized system, the forerunner of which will be in operation in the near future. The busiest thoroughfares are to be closed to horse-drawn traffic shortly. While the minister of transport, Mr. Hore-Belisha, has the power to put an end to traffic by horse, he doesn't wish to do so without giving the owners fair warning.

In any event a percentage of the animals will be able to "ride-bit" on the farm. Others can retire to meadow and pasture for well deserved rest. The occasional one may even be developed into a steppe-chaser or flat runner for the enjoyment of racing fans!

Would Reduce Accidents

If Drivers Of Cars Made Courtesy A Habit

The number and character of automobile accidents occurring lately give point to the following comment in a weekly exchange:

Science and industry have done their part in producing the automobile. Paul de Kruif, in a recent article in the Rotarian Magazine, declares that the thirty-five per cent of all accidents can be laid to automobile defects. The culprit is the driver. Collectively, he has not yet mastered the new device, has not yet adjusted his nervous organism to its demands, has not yet mastered the technique of making this combination a part of his social routine with economy of human wastage. He is, in short, not yet civilized.

The driver too often does not know the driving customs and regulations. Lacking such knowledge of how to signal, he fails to give the intimation to the driver behind—such as putting a hand out—that he is about to do something other than proceed straight ahead. He will just this time pass a car on a curve or near the crest of a hill. He will take the chance that the other fellow will show down at intersections, and himself speed on through.

To sum all, he lacks courtesy. The total lack of courtesy is consideration for other people. Courtesy is not the cloak to be exhibited upon occasion for admiration of friends; it is a way-of-doing, so regularly practiced that it best may be described as a habit.

A Remarkable Record

Seven Generations Of One Family Have Inherited The Deaf

For seven generations Miss Deaf's family has been active in the deaf community, and the deaf have been Miss Deaf's friends. Miss Deaf is now 18 years old and is a student at the School for Deaf at Saskatoon. The school has 140 pupils, ranging from 6 to 13 years. They are taught to speak, after which the whole process of thought must be unraveled for them. Miss Deaf is a bright and intelligent girl, and her regular academic and vocational curriculum follows: Manual training, household science, and the study of the deaf. As a result, some of the vocations in which instruction is given.

Miss Deaf explained that deaf children are taught to dance in perfect time to a piano, yet they have no clue to the rhythm other than vibrations felt through the floor.

One deaf girl at the Saskatoon school learned to speak at 18, and so expressed her thoughts for the first time in her life. She graduated. Miss Deaf said with pride, and this girl is going to Guelph, Washington, to attend college in the world of deaf people.

Scientific research is carried on at the deaf school, and the results of ideas on teaching the deaf are put into practice as they are developed. In addition normal school training classes are being carried on for the deaf, and the five teachers at the school are all "home trained."

Farm Machinery Exports

Big Increase Is Shown For July

Exportation Period Last Year. Farm implements and machinery exported during July amounted to value of $1,128,663, more than any other month of the year. It totalled $385,794, the Dominion bureau of statistics reports.

The leading purchasers were the United States of value of $370,000; Argentina, $333,444; British South Africa, $157,733; New Zealand, $144,840; Australia, $57,319; United Kingdom, $28,551; Denmark, $27,148; and Uruguay, $25,813.

"What became of the people when the bubble burst?"

"Drifted away, poor souls, leaving their dead behind them—their heads crushed. I recall one family stopping at our house for water, and Father bringing them in to be fed and warned. They were a pitiful sight: the young mother frail and worn, the father, the father, in ragged shirt and trousers, and an ailing baby. They promised to let us know how things went with them, but we never heard."

"Ships that pass in the night," said Matthew softly, and Luke broke in:

"But will you tell us how Old Pemerton escaped being tarred and feathered when the hoax was discovered?"

"For the very good reason," replied Miss Columbine, "that the scamp was nowhere to be found when the hoax was discovered, and now all that is left of the 'ghost city' which bore his name, are those tumble-down buildings (some of which cost a few thousand dollars), I was told, and that small burgundy where lie the bodies of those who were too frail to survive the rigors of frontier life."

"I'd like to see that place," said Nancy, as Cousin Columbine ceased speaking.

"You shall, my dear; and we'll make an excursion out on the plains as well. They can be so amusing, and I have to think how cruel they sometimes are."

"Cruel?" Nancy questioned, a little puzzled. "You mean those sudden plunges into the gravel, or the loss of one's shelter? Well, this winter's over, Cousin Columbine, and if you're no objection, I start getting acquainted with the plains tomorrow. I've got a marvelous idea. Why can't I ride to Prairie Ranch, and see the place? It would be a lark."

"You're a new woman, Nancy Nelson," remarked her brother, "if you get up at anything like a lark, the necessity of pling out of bed along with the robins! We'll pass your tower at five a.m., young lady. Do you think you can make it?"

"Of course she'll make it," put in Matthew eagerly. "We'll get lunch at Uncle Tom's. Nancy. I'll be lucky to have you along."

Thus it was settled, though on the ride home that night Cousin Columbine predicted a change of weather. Despite this prophecy the sun was shining when Nancy awoke, dressed rapidly, and slipped downstairs on foot; but as she passed the lower bedroom a call arrested her.

"That you, Nancy?"

Nancy opened the door.

"Did I wake you up? You were worried about the weather, Cousin Columbine. It's a lovely morning."

"What are you wearing?"

"My knitted sport and a bare my I'll be ready, but I can't take any way except my hiking sweater."

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of a noble birth, who, beyond the claims of her rank, is a regular for her coming-out party. Suddenly, in the market crash, her indulgent father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture a letter is received from the father, advising that he has died, and that the girl is to be married to a man who offers her a home on what seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge. Nancy retires one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill so as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and miss the path Aurora Tubbs had told her to follow. A truck comes along the road, driven by Mark Adams, and she asks him what way to go. "They ascend the hill, look around, and then go back to Cousin Columbine's," there Mark Adams tells Nancy that his brother Luke has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been hired to help out while Luke's leg gets better. With Jack away, Nancy finds that she is lonesome, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Nancy writes her request for books, and a sizeable box arrived in due course. Father Adam pointed to the library, and the Columbine boys worked on the shelves for the next day and night, and the library was soon open.

Nancy's parents and friends gave her liberal support, and she had books, and a sizeable box arrived in due course. Father Adam pointed to the library, and the Columbine boys worked on the shelves for the next day and night, and the library was soon open.

Bob Donaldson brought a monstrosity to town, but got rid of it before making an appearance.

That Bill Keith put the old "Bassano" adage into practice and braved the dust and thistles on the golf course to bring the season's play to the grand finale. His score was in the low thirties, we hope.

No, that poem on the editorial page about "The Family Cow" was not directed at Scotty.

That Len Standen is going to give an exhibition of dancing at the dance in town on October 18. That alone is indelicate enough for everyone to attend.

Spiders have been found lately by Jack Fraser and Larry Edwards which they believe to be of the Black Widow species. The identification mark of this particular kind is claimed to be a bright red mark on its under side resembling an hour glass.

Both spiders proved this mark. One of the spiders has been sent to the University of Alberta to determine its species.

COMMUNITY HALL FOR GEN!
 Rumors have it that the ambitious folk of Gen are starting a fund in the form of a community chest with the idea of building a community hall in the future. The local school house is proving itself inadequate in regard to room and conveniences for the holding of the larger events, and the addition of a hall will be a welcome asset to the citizens of Gen.
